

Entry #6

Jesus was born in a stable. A stable is a house or tabernacle for horses. Jesus was laid in a manger. A manger is a box or trough in a stall from which horses eat. Horses are mentioned all the way through from Genesis to Revelation, filling a very important role in both Bible History and Bible Prophecy. Horses are one of the only animals we frequently hear and speak of as having spirit and being spirited. Horses are unique.

My grandmother was once nearly crushed by a team of draft horses. She believes the love those horses felt for her could only be granted by God because they jumped as high as they could to keep from crushing her. One horse even snorted to the other to alert him that my grandmother was there.

There is a bond between a horse and the human heart that can only be explained by God's spirit and grace. Horses can teach us trust and are a friend to us. They teach us patience and kindness. Horses' spirituality is shown in Revelations 19:11, "I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse. And He who sat on him was called Faithful and True."
